

Welcome to the Speaking World of Dr. Judith Briles ... my world.

One of my takeaways from over three decades of speaking from the platform is that the success of any conference has 7 essential ingredients:

1. the overall program
2. the speakers
3. the networking
4. the encouragement attendees experience
5. the location
6. the temperature in the room
7. the food

As a speaker, I can't control the location, temp in room, food, networking opportunities, or the overall program. What I can control is what I deliver as a speaker and encouragement and how-tos to attendees. Of course, I do ask the powers-that-are to deal with uncomfortable temperatures onsite.

Whether our work together is IN-PERSON or VIRTUAL, your participants will be engaged and have takeaways that will make their attendance a plus for them and a star for you.

I've had the pleasure of keynoting and doing workshops for the Palm Springs Writers Guild, Independent Publishers of New England, Las Vegas Writers Conference, Texas Writers Conference, Alaska Writers Conference, Oklahoma Writers, Upper Peninsula Publishers, AuthorYOU Extravaganza, Northern Colorado Writers Conference, Florida Writers Conference, St. Louis Publishers Association, Bay Area Independent Publishers plus countless webinars. In fact, I love to do a "pre webinar" as an "inducement" to get attendees to attend for each group I present for.

If that sounds like something that would work for you; add to your event; and increase your attendance, I would be honored to get you on my calendar.

Dr. Judith Briles' Top 11 Presentations – Keynotes & Workshops

1 The Author's Walk

All authors' writing and words will take them places only THEY, their creativity, and their imagination initially can go. Eventually, passengers are added—the readers and fans that await the next book.

In Judith's presentation, she reveals the core of what brought her to write her first book (and the intent was only to be one book) and the swirling, swooping, and soaring that created her eventual life-long author walk. Flowing with insights to success and recovering from the failures, participants will nod in agreement, laugh out loud, embrace wisdom and insights, be inspired and motivated ... and know that the author's walk is a walk worth taking. Take-aways include:

- 5 steps to claim the author's walk.
- Tips for dealing with the "nosedives" that will lead to a "soar."
- The power of self-care strategies and setting boundaries with others.
- Welcoming the wisdom, the chaos and the truthiness of your words.

2 Avoid Book Publishing Blunders that will Sink Your Book

Whether you are just beginning the author journey or think you are an old pro, the publishing maze has a few tricks up its sleeve. Contracts can snarl you; marketing can swamp you, and social media can suck your energy. No wonder authors become comatose—no longer, after this highly interactive, fun and “aha” session.

Your takeaways include:

- Identify the 7 deadly sins that too many authors make.
- Learn what the “escape” clause is that every author needs to include in a traditional publishing contract.
- Come away with great tips and tricks to goose up your open rate on blogs and emails.
- Embrace the strategy to deliver “Best Seller” status on Amazon without spending money or gathering up a bunch of gifts as inducements to buy your book on launch day.

3 Ninja Book Marketing to Discover the Force within YOU!

Contrary to what many authors believe, writing the book is only 10% of publishing ... it’s the 90% marketing that will make or break book success.

Gone are the days of national book signing tours where an author travels from city to city to meet fans and be featured on TV, radio and in print. Most authors are homebound with their favorite cup of coffee or tea and constant laptop companion. To the surprise of a traditionally published author and bewilderment of the self and indie author, it’s up to the author to oversee all marketing and publicity.

Whether you are traditional or indie, it’s the author who is responsible for most of the book marketing. That means you. You need to think of your book as a product that you are bringing to the market.

The knowledge, tools, tips, and techniques delivered here will impact every decision you make along the way. Your takeaways will include:

- Create a Plan that’s a fit for your buyer and your book.
- Identify which social media platforms to use and which to dump.
- Why and how to use the cyber town hall to position a book launch.
- How to ride the “draft” of competitors.
- How to get your name out there and get recognized while keeping your sanity.
- Discover “freebies” that will tickle your book marketing fancy.

- How to create branding that waves a flag to your buyers.
- How quirky can get followers to open your Tweets, Postings and Blogs.
- How your author profile can kill your book sales and how to fix it pronto.
- Why authors should create a no-brainer newspaper.
- Why QVC and The Shark Tank are important to all authors.
- Why taking a contrarian position can soar media presence and book sales.
- Develop a social media network, making the most of community events.
- Resurrect a limp and tired book (and sometimes author).

4 Firehose Marketing

When it comes to authors and book marketing, it may be an Apple Pie and Ice Cream experience ... or Crème Brulé with a Dill Pickle Topping. Kinda ugh. Whether marketing is fun or an overwhelming tsunami, there are tips, tricks, and tools that can calm your author resistance and get things moving once again.

- How effective is the author's marketing?
- What's working?
- What hasn't?
- What portals, software, tools are you currently using?
- How often do you shoutout you and your book?
- Is the marketing all DIY or do you get help?
- The #1 think for authors to do is market their books. Do it with some fun; some flair; and get results. Get ready to gather a steady stream of new strategies and tips.

5 Creating the Amazon Bestseller

In working with clients for a serious Amazon campaign—not the one hour wonder that most experience. There are 23 steps. It's not something that is done over a day. Does it a #1 status count? It can ... if you do it with planning, creating, preparation and execution.

- Setting up the prework.
- What to do during the launch window.
- Ads and where to place them.
- Creating social media shoutouts and promoting over 24 hour cycles.
- Measuring and capturing results.
- What to do after campaign is over – it's a wait, wait ... there's more!

6 Have you got a book ... or planning to publish? Now, Create a Speech that Generates a Million Dollars and More!

Speaking sells books—lots of them. Savvy authors learn quickly that hoping book buyers find theirs on Amazon or in any other bookstore may be wishful thinking. They learn and embrace the old-fashioned “face-to-face” approach: have a meaningful message; create insight and magic with their words offering entertainment, encouragement or solutions; and woot—book sales pour forth. Immediately and with payment. Speaking: the golden key to book sales.

- How to create a title that attracts meeting planners and audiences.
- How to pitch yourself to the decision-maker.
- How to move from “free” to fee and get paid.
- How to identify your key points and create stories to engage an audience;
- How to coattail on current events within your presentation;
- How to hook an audience within the first few minutes of a presentation.
- How to morph a speech to a workshop, webinar or online course.
- How to find groups that want your message; and
- How to create a closing that delivers a buzz.

Attendees will come away with the “Cash Cow” 2-Step!

7 Crowdfunding Success for Authors and Writers

It takes a village to create a book ... and money. Money for editing; money for cover design; money for interior design and layout; money for marketing; money for publicity; money for printing books; money for education to become a savvy author; money for ...

Yes, it takes money. Thousands of dollars. Unless you have plenty of money to fund your book; an awesome friend or relative that loves what you do and is glad to write checks to support you and your journey; or you win the lottery ... you need to noodle ways to underwrite your book project(s).

CrowdFunding is a way to get money ... other people's money that comes to you as a "gift." Oh, you will pay taxes because you will report it as revenues ... but you don't have to pay it back. That's a Happy Dance for today.

Your take-aways include:

- Learn what CrowdFunding is and how it can work for you.
- IDing which source to use and how it works and how you get paid.
- How to structure your campaign and manage your roll-out.
- How to create perks/rewards that deliver buy-in.
- Create a CrowdFunding Game Plan.
- Timelines and how to develop partners to support your quest.
- Using Virtual Assistants to do preliminary and ongoing campaign work.

8 Discovering Your Resiliency Factor

As an award-winning author, Judith Briles personal journey has been littered with NOES. Two of her children have died; she survived a life-threatening illness—paralyzed for several months; survived a divorce that the tabloids would have relished; overcame cancer; and lost everything she had built when a partner embezzled over a million dollars leaving her without any assets but family, friends ... and herself. For Judith, too many times it was a sink or swim scenario ... but first, she had to learn how to tread water! Resilience became her middle name.

As a writer ... and an author ... it's easy to get knocked down. By those trying to hold you back. By those within your family. By those who are envious of what you are doing. It happens. Judith will reveal her key steps to keeping her resiliency factor going and how you can kick start yours. The Gift of Resiliency will be yours is this presentation for keynotes only.

9 Creating Confidence as an Author & Writer

Based on the best-selling book, The Confidence Factor—Cosmic Gooses Lay Golden Eggs, writers and authors will learn that confidence is acquired, not inherited; and it usually comes from the pitfalls—the cosmic gooses—of the writing life. Woven around the 6 Steps to Building Confidence, this stimulating and humorous speech is guaranteed to motivate and inspire audiences. With confidence, anything is possible. Laugh and learn as Dr. Judith Briles weaves the 6 Steps to Building Confidence to open or close your conference. This keynote/general session has consistently received outstanding evaluations.

10 Creating Author and Book Platforms

Most authors think that a Platform is all your social media contacts. Wrong. Platforms consist of three critical elements. With them in place, the people can, and will come. Your book buyers. Based on the IndieFab award for Book of the Year in Publishing/Writing Author YOU: Creating and Building the Author and Book Platforms, participants will learn:

- How to create the Author and Book Platforms.
- The critical elements of every Author and Book Platforms.
- Why you should know intimately who your reader is before you start writing.
- How to bring value to the reader.
- How to build spin-offs to expand your base.

11 If Publishing Is in Your Midst ... Which Option is for YOU and YOUR Book?

Amazon changed the publishing field—a great thing for so many newbie authors who didn't think a New York publisher or an agent would ever give them a moment's notice ... and it's also not so good a thing.

Does it make sense to seek a traditional publishing contract? Or does it make sense to look at alternatives, including self-publishing?

What are the differences between traditional, self, independent, paid-to-publishing, hybrid and vanity publishing?

Publishing continues to morph ...

- Do you know what your options are?
- Have you created your Author's Platform?
- What about a Book Platform?
- Do you know how to avoid the publishing predators, and do you know who they are?
- Do you know the dollars and sense of publishing?
- Do you know that a book, the right book, can accelerate your career and skyrocket revenues?

- Do you know which publishing option is the right fit for you and your book?

You will after this presentation.
